

A beautiful form of this species with white marginal variegation and decurrent silver-gray lines, which appears to have

AGAVE RIGIDA — AGAVE ANGUSTIFOLIA.

287

been found in Indian gardens about 1892 (the A. angustifolia variegata of French gardens some thirty years earlier perhaps having been A. picta), is now frequently cultivated under the name A. vivipara variegata.* A rare sport of this variety, which originated in the botanical garden of the College of